

HAIG'S MEN SMASH HINDENBURG LINE

BRITISH PUSH ENEMY BACK ON PICARDY FRONT; FRENCH DRIVE CHECKED

HINDENBURG LINE BROKEN. ENGLISH HAVE BEGUN TO ROLL UP THE GERMAN FORCES ON WIDE FRONT.

FALL OF PERONNE NEAR

Smash Begun Yesterday Apparently Stopped For The Present By Hun Forces Who Are Trying To Escape Danger.

Moving forward with sustained power British armies east and southeast of Arras appear to have crashed clear through the Hindenburg line. Dispatches received today seem to indicate they have begun to "roll up" the German forces on the front to which the enemy is retreating along the whole Picardy front.

Bullecourt, which was on the Hindenburg line was taken this morning. Hendecourt-les-Cagnicourt to the northeast of Bullecourt has also fallen before Field Marshal Haig's men. South of Hendecourt and slightly to the east Riencourt has been captured by the advancing British. East of Arras astride the Scarpe further gains are reported. The Droocourt "switch line" now is within striking distance.

Cross Somme. Further south the British have taken the village of Combles, where there was terrible fighting during the German retreat a year ago (last March). West of Peronne the British have captured the town of Cleary and also have crossed the Somme, Peronne.

Along the line further south, which is held by the British, the night passed without a change. There was an attack by the Germans against General Mangin's army between the Ailette and the Aisne, but these were repulsed by the French who held positions between two miles north-west of Soissons.

Canadians Win. Along the front from the Somme south to the Aisne, a sector which is vitally important, at present the enemy appear to have checked the French until he can extricate his forces from the Somme and Oise. The French maintained their gains east of Paisy, north of Soissons.

South of the Somme and along the Canal du Nord, there was no change in the situation during the night. German raids along the Vesle, where American troops are stationed and in Champagne failed.

STILL WAVER. Germany's hard pressed armies still waver before the attack of the allies. In central Picardy the British, by attacks, have taken the French maintained their gains east of Paisy, north of Soissons.

With the American Army on the Aisne-Vesle Front, Aug. 29. (Night).—Fighting of the most desperate character raged all day long between American troops and the enemy in the Juvigny region, north of Soissons, the Americans occupying the Becasse trenches along the railway which runs north and south. French tanks supported the Americans in the attack.

Violent counter attacks were repeatedly launched by the enemy, in which the Prussian Guards sought in vain to regain the lost ground.

Paris.—"The Germans are no more at Noyon," exclaimed the newspapers of Paris in triumph heavy type this morning. Premier Clemenceau's famous taunt to the government which held power before he came into control, cannot be used against him.

While all are exultant and believe the situation for the allies is more brilliant than ever, yet previous experience makes Frenchmen slow to shout victory. It is realized the Germans, although beaten, are still full of fight, but they are undoubtedly in an awkward predicament.

Hun Military Machine Due for Breakdown if Allies Continue Gains

Washington, Aug. 30.—Complete collapse of German resistance on the west front is only a matter of days if the allies can continue to roll up the gains that have characterized the fighting of the past seventy-two hours.

This is the opinion of certain general staff officers here today. They pointed out, however, that at the present time the enemy, while being driven back by Foch's steady hammer blows, may not be so easily broken.

ALL TOGETHER. This year's harvests have been remarkable. The demand for farm produce has never been greater and the closing weeks of garnering the crops that Dame Nature has bestowed upon us will demonstrate beyond a doubt that the entrance of the United States into the great war of ages has been justified by the furnishing of the sinews of war to the soldiers in the field and those who remain at home. As one farmer expressed it: "No Rock county farmer can complain this year. He has plenty of everything at good prices and while he may not have made money for two years past this year he will bring his average up."

Tobacco is way beyond the expectations of the buyers and they find they must pay prices unheard of in past years for crops they thought to pick up at a bargain. The grain crops have been of untold value to the grower and the same is true of every line of farm produce. Instead of having to buy feed for stock this year, they will mean they will have feed to sell. Fed at good prices, and prosperity will reign in the land.

In Janesville a new industry is starting. An industry that bids fair to become one of the largest in this section of the state and employing thousands of skilled laborers who will be given employment for the coming year. It is a case of all pull together these days to make everything come out right. The city men have gone onto the farms to help harvest the crops and now the farmers can help the city men by helping them solve the problems of housing and feeding the new citizens who will arrive shortly.

PRIMARY DAY.

Tuesday next is primary day when the voters will make their selection of state and county officers to be voted for at the November election. There are no party contests in the democratic side of the fence and the state issues apparently center on the choice of a gubernatorial candidate. With three aspirants in the field, two absolutely destructive, wrapping themselves in the stars and stripes and prating their patriotism, and the third standing fearlessly upon his record as governor for four years past, the sight is an interesting one.

Governor Phillips has been bitterly assailed by candidates who are backed by the disgruntled partisan politicians who failed utterly to "man-handle" the policy of Governor Phillips. You can find them in every community, particularly in Rock county. Some men are opposed to him because of his high influences and others by the cry of patriotism. You and men working against him here at home whose loyalty is still questioned, and who before the war, even though they held public office, were so pro-German in sympathy and declaration they were questionable citizens.

There are many men who have delivered telling lectures voluntarily, publicly, for the various government causes, yet who might be classed as that speaker at the Opera House recently did many foreigners: "We are fighting the Hun over there, but you look out for the Hun who sits beside you tonight. These men are opposed to Phillips, not because they feel his opponents' plea of loyalty will help them, perhaps because they are ashamed of themselves and wish to display their figures wrapped in 'old glory'."

Next Tuesday the voters of Rock county decide their choice on the governorship, and state and county officers. The only real contest is for the office of sheriff. There are four contestants. One is practically obliterated, a second will fail in support in his own home town, and the contest narrows down to two—one from Janesville, and one from the southern portion of the county. For the first time in years Janesville is to really cast the deciding vote on this question, and if they stand like Deloit has in the past the next sheriff will be from this city, the first for many and many a year. If not, it will go elsewhere.

VICTORY SUNDAY.

On September 1, every clergyman in the state of Wisconsin will be requested to make a special prayer or preach a special sermon for Victory week—the week in which Wisconsin will do all honor to her boys across the seas. Sunday will be opening day of the week in which every citizen of the state will be asked to purchase at least one War Savings stamp in addition to those he has already pledged.

The clergymen will explain in their talks the reason for the Victory week, and the great moral aid it will be to the boys "over there," to know that the people at home are "for them" in their great efforts to battle for democracy.

It is planned to have Secretary of War Baker give permission for Wisconsin to cable her boys overseas that Wisconsin is doing her best to do them honor, and when the big result of the sales of these war savings stamps is known, the plan is to send a second cable announcing that while all of Wisconsin cannot go to the front, all of Wisconsin can and will help to her last dollar, the cause of the great American people.

Prayer for Final Victory and Safety of Men will be the gist of the sermons to be preached on Victory Sunday—the first day of seven on which all of Wisconsin will subscribe to the War Savings Idea. Wisconsin is the first state in the union to conceive of such a thing as Victory Sunday—a generous contribution to the stamp fund will put Wisconsin "over the top" in her efforts to raise $1,000,000 as her share of the $2,000,000,000 needed at Washington.

BOYS WHO LEAVE SCHOOL.

It is reported as probable that a great many boys will leave school this fall earlier than they expected, on account of chances to earn high wages. In so far as young boys quit study at an immature age, the country will suffer from the interruption of their education.

Our prospective army of 5,000,000 men compels a readjustment of our economic life while the war is in progress. The majority of these men come from essential industries. Their places must be filled. Many of the boys who take up their work will be doing good patriotic service, and should not be discouraged.

We must expect that a great many men who are called into the army will not be able to complete their regular scholastic education. That is one of the sacrifices called for by war. The country will suffer but it must pay this as a part of the price. It is worth it for what we shall get.

But a great many of these boys will leave school at the age of fourteen to sixteen, from a mere money-making motive, and will enter industries that could get along somehow without them. A great many such boys will take places that could be filled by women and girls who have completed their education.

When the education of young people is interrupted, the productivity power is sapped. Also they are not so likely to develop into the most intelligent type of citizens.

Some of these boys of fourteen to sixteen think they are performing a great stroke when they quit school, tempted by some job at good pay. They usually squander a good deal of their money and then are left handicapped by the incompleteness of their training.

AN ARMY OF 5,000,000.

There have been plenty of doubters who a few months ago said the United States could not raise and supply the army of 5,000,000 men for which the government is now calling. In the shipping, their gloomy forecasts will not be sustained. With the tremendous increase of our ship production, far exceeding sinkings by submarines, we are going to have plenty of ships. It will be no more supplying the men than to take care of them by shipments by rail.

During the Civil war the men engaged on both sides numbered 3,500,000. At that time the United States had less than a third the population it has now, and about one twenty-fifth of the present wealth. We would have to put 12,000,000 into the field to equal what our forefathers did. The machinery of civilization has of course grown more complex. In Civil war times more men proportionately worked at farming and in small workshops. They probably felt freer to leave at the call of the country. Those were simpler times. People were accustomed to get along with fewer things and could deny themselves with less effort.

Today, in spite of all our great army already called out, things run along with far less disturbance than would have been thought possible. Most of the factories are running. Few people are idle. Little complaint is heard of poverty or suffering. Our burdens may be trying, but they are not yet anything like what those who have gone before us have borne. So let us not be satisfied with small results. It will be far cheaper in lives and money to put this war through to a prompt conclusion, than to let it drag on year after year.

PERSONAL JOURNALISM.

The retirement of Henry Watterson from the active editorship of the Louisville Courier-Journal, has been one of the old events whose personal force was so dominating a figure in the American press. We have plenty of big men in the newspaper business still. As a whole the average of intellectual ability is higher than it used to be.

But today the work is more impersonal. The big newspapers are great machines, where few of the readers know or care who writes what they read in haste. In the smaller newspapers the editor is often a personal force. But running a newspaper is a more difficult business problem than it used to be. A great many editors find their best thought absorbed by the business office.

The old editor spent his whole time in his office, buried deep in dusty papers and books. He thought deeply, read much, and his writing was shrewd, mature, and pertinent.

The modern editor mingles more with daily life. He does not spend so much time in the world of books, but he spends more in the world of men. He is less brilliant a writer but is a more active practical worker for community progress.

The career of a man like Watterson may well be an inspiration to every youth who aspires to newspaper success. He did not make as much money as some, but he rendered more service and attained greater respect.

The way for the young journalist to follow along the same path is to study the masters of English style, be ashamed to turn out slovenly writing, read deeply of history and politics, converse much with men of many points of view, and always speak what he thinks. It is a career full of rewards superior to money.

The Germans are not bothered about our proposed army of 5,000,000 Americans, as Kaiser Bill says our census figures are padded, and there aren't that number of men in the United States.

The people who complain the most that the streets are in a disgraceful condition are sometimes the same ones who make a protest when a street is torn up and closed for repairs.

The boys who leave school with insufficient education to take advantage of high wages, will be the ones who by and by are complaining that they have never had any luck in the world.

Judging by the scarcity of teachers, there are still many school boards who can't see why a school marm isn't willing to work for her board and half the cost of her clothes.

The President is going to be taxed $24,000 a year on his salary, but it is believed he can get along without having to rent rooms in the White House.

American troops, says a German expert, are better on the attack than on the defense. But they don't seem to be having to use the defensive much.

The merchants who don't advertise are reported exceedingly distressed with the difficulties of war conditions.

The Germans claim our troops are all tired out. If so it must have been because they had to run so fast to keep up with the retreating Huns.

A good many people are exercising the right of freedom to strike and hold up the war supplies for the army that is protecting their freedom.

The soldiers need not hesitate to accept automobile rides when same are offered, as they should think how proud it makes the driver feel.

The people who are trying to get rich out of the war won't be very popular candidates for office when the boys get home from France.

Some people's idea of observing Old Home Week at their native place is to brag about how much money they have made by going away.

It is mighty hard for a good old-fashioned hobo nowadays to find a place where there aren't a number of jobs waiting for him.

The smaller boys wish they could go to war, as they learn that in the trenches many Saturday night baths have to be skipped.

Girls harvesting potatoes in many sections. This should promote the "Back to the Soil" movement among the young men.

These proposed taxes on soda and soft drinks are declared by the girls to be class legislation.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

ROY E. MOUTON

Archduke Stephen of Austria will be king of Poland for a few days.

Camouflaged automobiles—the latest idea. It is easy to make a silver look like a carpet sweeper.

The Germans plotted war here in 1900—one best bet—They won't be plotting war here in 1919.

Sir Rabindranath Tagore, the lavender night Bengal poet, has been acquitted of any complicity in the plot to foment revolution in India.

We can easily believe that. If he did try to raise a plot, few would understand him—especially if it were a poetic plot.

We heard Rab several times when he was in our midst. What did he talk about? Well, now really we don't know. He didn't say.

GIRLS ARMED TO TEETH, PATROL FLORIDA COAST FOR PRO-GERMAN ACTS

(By International News.) Washington, Aug. 30.—Silhouetted against a pitch black sky and cold white stars a human figure on horseback mounted to the crest of a hill. Off to the west the sea swished and tossed, playing a bass to the forest. Strapped to the saddle and within easy reach, was a rifle. The figure pulled night glasses from a case and looked long and carefully in all directions. The glasses were pit back, and the horse ambled out of sight.

Midnight, and many miles away from the crest where the first figure was to be seen, a second figure on horseback met the first. Greetings were exchanged in low, girlish tones. The first figure yawned, turned the horse around and went out of sight; the second resumed the patrol.

The figures were those of Girl Scouts in Florida, who for many months have been patrolling the Florida coast on horseback and fully armed. The patrols were first started when it was realized that there were many pro-Germans in scattered hamlets along the coast, and was continued with renewed vigor when news of the first German submarine off the Atlantic coast was reported.

The many small rivers and inlets of the Florida coast are patrolled regularly, and many cases have been reported of men of known pro-German tendencies following the Girl Scouts and annoying them. They were promptly put under arrest by the girls at the point of a rifle, and some have been interned for seditious utterances.

The girls are all between the ages of fourteen and twenty, and have received valuable assistance to scout the navy in signaling, reporting suspicious movements of individuals, motorboats and yachts.

Around the State

Bumper Crops
Waupaca.—Waupaca county has a wheat average this year, which is fourteen times the quota allotted to it by the federal government. There are 2,455 acres planted against 375 in 1917, and the crop will be the largest ever known in its county.

The government asked that 150 acres be added to the 1917 acreage, but the local farmers went much further and planted 2,455 in stead and will realize that this county is due to become a good wheat section.

The potato crop, aided by today's heavy rain will be a bumper about as large as last year's. Corn and other crops are exceptionally fine also.

Notice Sent Out
Milwaukee.—Official notification has been sent out by the railroad of Wisconsin calling attention to the fact that the government has granted one-half fare for a full round trip. All roads in Wisconsin are affected. This special rate goes into effect Sept. 1 to 14. The fare will open on Sept. 1. Secretary Oliver E. Remey has received definite word that all taxes on admissions in connection with rates, concessions, etc., at the fairs are abolished during state fair week.

Young Child Dead
Richwood.—Robert Holman, youngest child of Mr. and Mrs. John Holman of Barron, died of infantile paralysis after an illness of twenty-four days.

Eugene Durnal, formerly of Barron, was fatally wounded when a revolver which he was playing was discharged accidentally. He died two hours after the accident.

Charles Weegman.
When Charlie Weegman became a member of the Cubs he started to get a pennant winner. The Cubs copied the flag for him and brought back much of the coin he spent.

LEVI CASE FIRST MAN TO REGISTER

FEED COMPANY HOLDS HONOR OF BEING FIRST REGISTRANT UNDER NEW DRAFT

CHAS. BUTLER SECOND

L. H. Case's Registration At Eight O'clock Yesterday Morning Followed At Noon By That Of C. W. Butler.

Levi Case, 433 South Bluff street, proprietor of the Bower City Feed Co., holds the honor of being the first man in the northern half of Rock County to register under the new 18 to 45 draft act, and is probably the first man in Wisconsin to sign the honor roll. Mr. Case, who is 45 years of age, registered at eight o'clock, yesterday morning. His card was filled out by Sheriff Robert C. Whipple, chairman of the local draft board. Mr. Case will be out of the city during the first half of September, he thought he would register in person rather than by mail.

The second man to register was Chas. Butler, 848 South Main street, and proprietor of the Troy Steam Laundry. He also registered with Sheriff Whipple shortly after two o'clock, yesterday. Mr. Butler, who is 44 years old, will be out of the city on the date of registration.

A big supply of new registration cards has just been received by the local board. The new cards are printed in red so as to distinguish them from the old cards which are lettered in black. The board is now receiving 18 and 45, who may find it impossible to be in the city on registration day, which has not yet been fixed, which will probably be Sept. 7th.

Wanted at once, a few good energetic boys for paper routes in Janesville. Good opportunity for advancement while going to school. Apply at once to Mr. C. H. Pryce at Gazette Office.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Amelia A. Kleeb
Mrs. Amelia A. Kleeb died Thursday afternoon, at 5 o'clock, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. J. Luchins, 132 North Chatham street. Death was due to a stroke of paralysis.

The deceased was born on Jan. 26, 1862 in Monroe, where she spent the early part of her life. She was married in 1880 to Edward Kleeb of Monroe, and in 1880 the couple came to make their home in Janesville. Mr. Kleeb died in 1913. She leaves a son, Harry Kleeb, and two daughters, Mrs. William Landon of Great Falls, Mont., and Mrs. W. J. Luchins, who is in the city. One daughter died in infancy, and a son, George, was killed in a railway accident several years ago.

Funeral services will be held at the home of the late Mrs. Kleeb, 132 North Chatham street, on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The remains will be taken to Monroe, Sunday for burial.

Thomas F. Reed
Funeral services for the late Thomas F. Reed were celebrated at nine o'clock this morning at St. Patrick's church. High mass was celebrated by Dean Reilly. Father Pierce of Sharon was the deacon and Father William was the sub-deacon and also officiated at the service. The pall-bearers were William Mulligan, James Sheridan, Will Hayes, William Dowd, and Thomas Abbott. All are members of the O. P. of which Mr. Reed was also a member. Interment was made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

COURT HOUSE EMPLOYEES GET 3-DAY VACATION

Owing to the fact that Monday, Labor Day, and Tuesday, primary election day, are both legal holidays, the county officers at the court house will be closed on Wednesday, and the employees will enjoy a vacation of three days.

E. F. Brown Renominated
Waupaca.—The renomination of E. F. Brown in the Eighth Congressional district is predicted by political judges here. Mr. Brown has had strong opposition on account of some of his votes in Congress, but has made a flying campaign and is said to be assured of support. The uncertainty where the wet vote will go.

Congressman Cooper to Voters:

The fact that very important war measures including the great revenue bill to raise $5,000,000,000 to prosecute the war during the coming year, are about to come before congress makes it impossible for me to remain in Wisconsin until primary day.

Before leaving for Washington I beg to ask you not to believe "eleventh-hour" attacks which can be circulated. Voters should remember that the leading back of such attacks is evidence that they are false and, with suitable opportunity, could be readily answered.

Big game, disappointed postoffice candidates and big profiteers are using the word "loyalty" in this time of great public excitement in the hope that they may thus conceal their real motives. The circular which they have caused to be sent throughout the district is a cunningly drawn, deceptive document as is clearly proven by the Congressional Record.

I have voted for every measure, without exception, which President Wilson has signed to prosecute the war. I shall continue to vote for such measures because this war must be fought out to such a victory as shall forever make secure around the world the cause of government of the people, by the people, for the people.

In this critical time in the history of the Nation you should carefully investigate the records of candidates for public office, and be sure and vote on Tuesday next.

Very respectfully,
HENRY ALLEN COOPER.
Authorized and paid for by Cooper Campaign Committee.

They Should Worry

Candidates for the various county offices, with the exception of sheriff, are paying but little attention to the primary election next Tuesday and are apparently very little interested in the outcome. Howard Lee, running to succeed himself as county clerk, has no opposition on the Republican or Democratic tickets, while county treasurer, A. M. Church, who is out for reelection is equally fortunate in having no opposition. Three others who are out after their old jobs are favored in the same way. They are Register of Deeds E. P. Smiley, Attorney Stanley G. Dunwiddie, and Circuit Court Clerk Jesse Earle.

All of these candidates have filed their final expense accounts with County Clerk Lee, and as the figures are striking they are given herewith: County Clerk Lee, $2.15; District Attorney Dunwiddie, $2.15; Circuit Court Clerk Earle, $2.15; County Treasurer Church is getting off a little cheaper than the others, his expense account showing that he spent only $1.45.

FEDERAL COURT GIVES ROSSEBO THIRTY DAYS

Thomas Rossebo Sentenced to Thirty Days in Dane County Jail at Madison—Charged Plea to Guilty.

Madison, Aug. 30.—Changing his plea to guilty, Thomas Rossebo of Janesville, was sentenced to thirty days in the Dane county jail when he pleaded guilty in federal court here this morning on the liquor sales to soldiers cases. Rossebo had been held under $2,000 bond.

Two other pleas of not guilty were changed this morning. Mrs. Mildred Baggett of La Crosse, who was placed under $2,000 bond for trial, pleaded guilty and was sentenced in the House Sanborn to three months in the House Sanborn.

William Kramer, employee of the Madison-Kramer company, was fined $100.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mrs. Harry Summers of Milwaukee avenue, who recently underwent an operation at Mercy hospital is reported as doing nicely.

Edward Smith of Albany is visiting her sister Mrs. James Lottinge on North Pearl street.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ambrose are overjoyed at the arrival of a daughter, Jean, Margaret Ambrose of 556 N. Hickory street.

The bond issue is imperative.

CHILDREN ENTERTAIN MANY WITH PAGEANT

Playgrounds Successfully Celebrate Patriotic Play Week Yesterday Afternoon With Red Cross Masque.

Children of the public playgrounds in the city entertained large crowds of spectators yesterday afternoon at the Court House park when they successfully presented a patriotic pageant in celebration of national patriotic play week.

The pageant presented was a masque of the Junior Red Cross entitled, "The Opposite End of the World." The little folks impersonated many famous characters of fairy lore, Mother Goose was there, Jack and Jill, and Little Boy Blue, Red Riding Hood and even Cinderella. Sprightly wood nymphs danced about on the green to give the appearance of the scenes of a real fairyland.

Prominent in the masque were the war children of France. The Red Cross children, with gifts of warm clothing and food, make friends with the war children, and show the children how they can help them. The whole playlet was one which demonstrated by the children how they could aid their little French allies through the Junior Red Cross work.

The following young women had charge of the pageant: Helen Bull, Louise Nowlan, Marion Riddett, Evelyn Welsh, Emily Sewell, Dorothy Korst, and Katherine Carle.

News Notes from Movieland

BY DAISY DEAN

Tsuri Aoki is the talented young wife of Miss Hayakawa, who is famous for her portrayals of Japanese heroines. She is a distinctive little woman with shiny black hair and black eyes. Twenty-six years ago she was born in Tokyo, Japan. She was educated in the United States and her stage career at the age of eight, playing with her aunt and uncle.

Now Miss Aoki is busy writing a play. In fact it must be finished by this time and ready for screen presentation. It is a child's play and the action takes place in the land of cherry blossoms. When it is produced, it will be a star for Mary Jane Irving, the clever youngster of five years, who is one of the most popular players at the Hayakawa studio. All of the characters except that portrayed by little Mary will be played by Japanese children.

If Miss Aoki's play is as clever as her acting and as charming it will undoubtedly be a success. In speaking of her play she said that she felt a young boy who was to make his first speech in public, one minute she feels real important and in the next minute finds her "all trembling."

This little lady and her husband are two of the most popular people in the film colony at Hollywood and continue to the expectations of many visitors they are thoroughly Americanized.

"I really feel sorry," said Miss Aoki, "because we disappoint so many people. They come expecting to see me in a long kimono and squatting on the floor drinking tea."

MAE MURRAY IS FREE AGAIN
Not that Mae has been serving a sentence for crime or anything like that; she has merely obtained her final decree of divorce from Jay O'Brien. The two were married two years ago—in December, 1916. They fought at their wedding supper, according to Mae's statement in the court room, and her husband left her the next morning.

She remembered that she did not see him once after the ceremony. He called and choked her and threw her across the room. The judge granted her a divorce and signed a sigh as if to say, "What was the matter with Jay?"

LYNELL WANTS COMMISSION
Bert Lytell has made application for the officers' training camp, and if accepted will start upon the instruction period about January 15. Lytell will study for a commission in the infantry.

Edgerton News
Edgerton, Aug. 30.—The information that four pounds of flour could be bought to one pound of substitute was received by local merchants yesterday and was very welcome news to the housewives.

William Barrett died at his home on Washington street yesterday noon after suffering with a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Barrett had been suffering with Bright's disease for a number of years past. He was born in the town of Foster forty-four years ago and made that locality about fifteen years ago. In 1900 he was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth Nichols, and to this union six children were born—Katharine, Mary, Cecelia, Grace and Frank. He is also survived by three brothers—James, Porter, Peter and Lawrence of Center. Funeral services have not yet been arranged and will be announced later.

Word comes to the city that Will Dickenson has been transferred to Camp Hancock, Georgia, to Camp Merritt, New Jersey, probably for overseas duty.

Miss Blanche Shumway went to Washington yesterday afternoon to meet her mother in the schools. Misses Ruth Birkenmeyer and Florence Jack went to Beloit yesterday to make arrangements to attend Beloit college the coming year.

Martin Lander, a farmer residing in the Rockdale road, near the churches, fell from a tobacco shed last evening. He struck his head and is in a critical condition. The man of last night put a temporary stop to the harvesting of one of the best tobacco crops in the state of Wisconsin. The farmers are being assisted quite materially by the local merchants and their clerks, and there are numerous blind people who are working in evidence. There is no general buying movement as yet, but a few scattering sales are being made at about 35 cents. Two large feed stores, one at 35 and 10 cents, and Caldwell Bros., fifty acres at 35 and 10 cents. H. E. Peters sold his twelve-acre farm at 35 cents and the local merchants are doing a little damage. The labor situation has been very efficiently handled by U. A. Fleen, federal labor agent, and the merchants are co-operating with that office in supplying emergency labor and autos to take workers to their places of employment.

Milton News
Milton, Aug. 30.—Fred W. Crumb returned to Brooklyn, N. Y., Wednesday, to resume his duties in the naval service. C. E. Post of Battle Creek, Mich., has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Brown. C. W. Crumb transacted business in Chicago, Wednesday. Elmer Hansen, wife and son, of Barron, former residents, were in town Wednesday. Mrs. Bettie Williams of Darien is visiting Mrs. C. W. Crumb. The "wild to meet you" hand-shakers for Vilcox and Randall stormed the village Wednesday. Friends of Frederick from Fort Stevens, Ore., is here on an fifteen day furlough to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Shumway. Mrs. A. B. Summers has returned from a visit with her parents at Battle Creek, Mich.

URGES PEOPLE TO VOTE ON BOND ISSUE

Further Development of Janesville Depends On Passage Of The $70,000 Bond Issue Next Tuesday.

How quickly Janesville develops, largely depends on her people. The first step in the new development is the passage of the $70,000 bond issue at next Tuesday's election. Two-thirds vote is required to approve that measure, therefore, it is essential that every voter make sure that he cast the special bond issue ballot.

Should this bond issue fail to receive the required two-thirds vote, the claims in the coming for the greater city will be retarded, and the city will start backward in place of going forward.

This is a matter of vital importance, bridge at S. Jackson street is absolutely necessary. The coming to this city of the new plant in which will be employed thousands, makes the necessity for a new structure imperative.

Tie a string to your finger if you are forgetful; buttonhole your friend and tell him to do likewise. Let us put this over with 100 per cent vote and prove we are earnest in our wish for progress.

Act yourself and get action of your neighbor. Only by getting, carelessness can lose the issue.

Wonderful Record.
Vaucler.—The participation of Company C of this city in the fighting in France recalls that the company has a record of which it is justly proud. Way back in 1893 when J. D. Womer was captain, Adj. Gen. Orlando Holway was first lieutenant of the company. That year the company sent its drill team to participate in the international drill at Chicago. At that time the company was known as the Light Guard. The company was largely composed of business men of mature age, with a sprinkling of young men. Louis A. Pradt, later assistant U. S. Attorney General, was a second lieutenant. Other members were Grant, D. Jones, Amos H. Clark, Emil Homan, J. D. McKay, Ole Amundson and F. S. McCullough, now prominent residents of Wausau.

Among the contestants at Chicago were the Toledo Cadets and Company D from St. Paul, famous prize companies, who acknowledged no rivals and who were obliged to the judges. These two companies went into the drill beautifully uniformed and won the verdict of the crowd for first and second places.

But Company C marched out at the summons of the bugle in fatigue uniform without an ornament or a feather, but looking as trim as race horses. They approached in such perfect time and with such precision that the West point colonel at the head of the judges of the drill took them for regulars.

They won first place with ease and private E. E. Fitzgerald of the company won the first prize for individual drill. The total value of the prizes they brought home including $3,500 in gold was about $5,000. Captain Womer was presented with a diamond studded watch and each member of the company received a solid gold badge pendant from a gold bar.

The light company of the Third Wisconsin National Guard. It took part in the Spanish-American war in Porto Rico. When trouble with Mexico threatened it went to the border and later was sent to Ashland, Wis., to guard the ore docks at the beginning of the present world conflict. Later a short time was spent in San Antonio, then the company accompanied the American Expeditionary Forces to France and is assisting in winning new glory for the American Army.

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nine years old. I have a boy friend several months older than I. We have been going together for several years. I wrote him a letter some time ago, but he has not answered it. I have been with him once since then.

Every time we are together we have a fight. He acts as though he thinks very much of me. He asked me to marry him but I did not give him my answer. I told him we would talk it over the next time we were together. Now he seems so different and never mentions it. I have not been with him for several weeks. I don't know what to think. I don't care about going places and cannot enjoy myself among others as I could were I with him.

Do you think he does not care for any more? Why does he not write? This boy has a good disposition. He is the only child and mostly has his own way about things. I have known him for some time. I tell him how I can win him back as I like him very much. What shall I do? LONDSOME M.

You can tell how the boy feels when you are together than when he is away. It really indicates nothing that he does not write to you. Many boys do not write to their girlfriends and to take you places when he likes you. In time he may realize again. If you find you have him, do not try to win him back. Your efforts will only keep you unhappy.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have met a young lady whom I very much admire. She is friendly disposed, and has a beautiful conduct. I am very much interested in her and would rather be in her presence than with any girl I know. There is one thing I cannot exactly decide. She has a friend who has been called to service and if she is really in love with him I know I should not interfere. Can you suggest how I should proceed to get light on this matter and yet be on friendly terms with her? INTERESTED INQUIRER.

If she has not announced her engagement to the young man in service, you are free to call upon her and take her places just as often as you want to and she will let you. She probably will tell you after you have been together a little longer. Things will indicate how much she cares for the other man.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl eight years old and I have been going with a young man about one month. While I was going with him he talked about the girl he went with before. He went with her because he saw me talking to another friend of mine who has been out of the city. He seemed to care a great deal about me while I was a great deal about him and I cared for him. Please tell me how I can regain his friendship.

(2) There is a young man with whom I was once to get acquainted. How can I do it? BETTY.

(1) Do not try to regain his friendship. A man who is so jealous that he will give up a girl because she is talking to another man never makes a satisfactory friend.

(2) There is no way to become acquainted without a formal introduction from a mutual friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl thirteen years old. I live with my mother and mother does, too. Is it proper for me to go to dances with the boys if mamma does not object?

(2) Do you think she has any right to open letters which I receive from boys? I am writing to several boys. Some of them are in the United States service. I don't want her to read my letters when I don't want her to.

A PUZZLED GIRL.

(1) You are many years too young to attend dances with boys. (2) You should neither write nor receive letters that you would not be willing to have your mother see.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

The hosts should always bow and shake hands with a guest arriving late, but does not rise unless the guest is a woman. In order that the gentleman friend may not begin to think himself too much a favorite, a general suggestion would be not to accept too many attentions, to show a certain reserve in dancing or driving with him. But of course any girl knows whether her looks and words give him reason to think he is especially favored. Etiquette custom has decided on that point. Most men respect and seek after a girl who is not too anxious to accept invitations. E. Q. Possibly the young man was troubled with shyness and will make his proposal in a frank enough manner for you to understand his intentions. You are to assume in the meantime that the engagement exists, but keep him a little at a distance until he speaks openly.

MENU HINT
Breakfast.
Fried Hominy. Corn Syrup.
Quick Nut Bread (toasted).
Luncheon.
Omelet Tomato Soup.
Hashed Brown Potatoes.
Potato Cornmeal Muffins.
Stewed Fruit.
Dinner.
Lyonnaise Tripe.
Baked Potatoes. Spring Beans.
Cornstarch Pudding with Milk and Sugar.

SAVE WHEAT—USE POTATOES
White Potatoes—Use one quart of baked potatoes, four eggs, beaten slightly, one cup sugar, one-third cup fat, one-quarter cup this cream or top milk, juice and rind of one lemon. Mix in mixture and season with five minutes, pour into baking dish. Bake in hot oven twenty to thirty minutes or until custard is set.

Hungarian Potatoes—Use one quart cooked potatoes, three tablespoons fat, one tablespoon chopped onion, two tablespoons parsley, two cups tomatoes, one teaspoon salt. Half teaspoon paprika and one onion slightly cut up and add to diced potatoes. Add remaining ingredients except parsley to potatoes and put in greased pan. Bake covered in moderate oven forty-five minutes. Sprinkle top with chopped parsley and serve.

Fish and Potato Salad—Use any left over fish, being careful to remove all the bones. Boil one cup of potatoes until done. Mix with salad dressing, pouring it over fish and potatoes separately. If potato is freshly boiled and warm, mix with dressing in order seasoning will penetrate potato more easily, giving better flavor. When ready to put salad together add chopped sweet peppers. Sprinkle with oil and vinegar.

Potato Bread—One cake yeast, one-quarter cup butter, one tablespoon sugar, two and one-quarter cups mashed potatoes, two cups flour, one egg, four and one-half cups flour or more. Dissolve the yeast in one-quarter cup lukewarm water, to which add one tablespoon sugar. Boil potatoes in salted water until tender. Drain and mash. To the warm two and one-quarter cups mashed potatoes add the fat and salt. When the potatoes are just lukewarm add the yeast mixture and four enough (four and one-half to five cups) to make a rather stiff dough. Knead well and put to rise in greased bowl until double in bulk. Knead again and add flour if necessary. Mold into loaves, let rise, and bake in moderate oven from 45 to 60 minutes.

VEGETABLE DISHES.
Scalloped Onion—Remove the outer skin from onions; boil whole until tender. Place onions in baking dish with alternate layers of bread crumbs, cover with milk, water or mixture of milk and water; cover top of dish with bread crumbs, brown in oven. Scalloped turnips, cabbage and tomatoes are prepared in the same way.

Creamed Cabbage—Chop cabbage and boil. Make a cream sauce, add cabbage and bring to a boil. Sprinkle with little chopped parsley over the dish before serving.

Pears in Turnip Cups—Three large white turnips, one pint green peas shelled or one pint cup peas drained, one-half cup milk, one teaspoon butter, salt and pepper. Peel turnips, hollow out tops to form cups, steam till fairly tender and salt lightly. While turnips are steaming cook peas in milk, add butter and salt, sugar in the water in which they are cooked. Drain, reserving the liquor for soup; also the tops of the turnips. Put in milk, butter, salt on peas and cook till blended. Take up turnip cups carefully and fill with peas. Garnish with parsley.

Browned Parsnips—When parsnips are cooked tender, cut in half-inch slices, long way, brown in oven with bits of bacon over the top, or in frying pan with drippings.

BEWARE THE TALK.

One day during our last hot spell I was calling on a friend who has a dog. While I was there she went to the door and called the dog in from the yard where he was lying in the spot of his choice and made him lie in a spot of her own choosing on the veranda. He didn't want to do, but being a dog who had been trained to mind, he had to.

If you would be more comfortable there, she said to him and then turning to me with a whimsical smile added, "I think one reason why I enjoy Don so is that he is the one creature on earth whom I can make do what I think is best for him."

Dogs Understand the Universal Language. We laughed together at her whimsy, and Don thumped his tail as he always does when people laugh. Smiles and laughter are the universal language among men and dogs, being of all races and dogs, being the next of kin to humankind, the clearest among them also understand it.

"Poor, Don," I said, "and I ought not to do it, for I've always pitied children because so many women treat them that way." "Don't you like it is for the children's good to have older and wiser people settle most things for them?" I asked, not because that expresses my own views, but just to get a rise.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

Old Mr. North Wind, At the North Pole, Is shaking up the snowflakes In a big white bowl. Soon he'll scatter over All the shivering land Hurrying, scurrying snowflakes.

This is the song Jack Frost sang one morning at the window of little Billy Bunny's room. And, would you believe it, he had painted on the wall a picture of frosty ferns and trees and rivers.

And then the little rabbit's alarm clock went off like a fire bell. Oh, my, what a noise it made! Billy Bunny, what a noise it made! Billy Bunny, what a noise it made!

"Now, Billy Bunny," said his kind Uncle Lucky, "we will go out for a ride, for the old gentleman rabbit got up the middle of the night and got a big bear robe out of the hall closet and a pair of warm gloves and the he and his little nephew went out to the garage and hitched up the Luckymobile and honked the horn, and then off they went. And after a while, not so very long, they came to a big pile of stones right in the middle of the road.

"Who ever put that there?" said the old gentleman rabbit, and he stopped the Luckymobile just in time. And then a great big snake crawled along under that pile of stones here, and said: "I put those stones here. What are you going to do about it?"

And the what do you think Billy Bunny did? He took a long rope and ran under that pile of stones and the snake couldn't get his head out of the noose, for it was as tight around his neck as the bark on a tree.

"Now, we'll tell you what we're going to do," said the old gentleman rabbit, and he got out and threw all the stones to one side, and a few on the other, and after that he got back into the Luckymobile. And while he was doing all this Billy Bunny tied the rope to the back of the Luckymobile, and when the old gentleman rabbit started it up Mr. Snake came along just as nicely as you please, and maybe a little nicer.

"Oh, please let me go," begged the snake, for it was dreadfully hard work keeping up with the Luckymobile. Let me tell you, and I don't believe he would have if that rope hadn't been around his neck.

"Will you promise never again to put stones in the road?" said Billy Bunny, and when the snake said yes, the little rabbit let him go. And that snake went so fast that he left one of his rattlers behind him, but he never came back for it.

The Daily Novelette

WILBERFORCE.
"Did I ever tell you fellows about Wilberforce?" said Colonel Harta Beeten.

There was a blank silence. "No, sir," said Colonel Harta Beeten cheerfully. "Wilberforce was my trained flea. Of course you've all heard of so-called trained fleas pulling little carts, and rubbish of that sort, but Wilberforce really used his brain."

Wilberforce was a thinking flea. "The summer I trained Wilberforce I was—aw—hard—up—in a word, broke. Haw! Creditors were bothering me to death. They used to come and sit in the ante room adjoining my office and stick there till I either came in or out—all depending on whether I was out of Wilberforce for four dollars—ridiculously cheap, even from a retiring sideshow trained flea man. Within three weeks I taught the little chap to do his bit. And I really clevah he was at it, too, bah jove."

"It would work out like this: a creditor would come and sit down to wait for me. Wilberforce would be waiting for the creditor—he got so he could tell 'em at sight. Zzz-zip, Wilberforce would bite him. Now if it was merely a question of biting, waiting for the creditor was nothing. But Wilberforce to bite and jump away, all in a breath, whereas his instinct was to bite and stay to gorge himself, thus rendering himself incapable of a second bite. But Wilberforce would bravely conquer his little flea instinct, and bite, and jump, and bite again and jump, and bite again, until the creditor, thinking himself reassured by a perfect swarm of insatiable insects, would flee in pain and rage."

And Colonel Harta Beeten, chuckling reminiscently, finished his tale with the momentarily helpless creditor, and sauntered off.

THE REWARD.
When the bitter strife is done, When the last grim fight is won, We shall gather freedom's roses In the sun of happy June; We shall meet and smile together In the forest sort of weather; We shall form the old-time circles And shall sing our merry tunes.

We shall tread the velvet clover In a world that's been made over; We shall find the dreary places Lit by many a cheery smile; Men and women will be neighbors As they bid to their labors. And the years for all our children Will be very much worth while.

It was ours with hate to battle, Ours to hear the cannons rattle, Ours to give our sons to service, Ours to keep the flag on high; And when the war no longer wages, To the children of the ages We shall hand down freedom's riches In the glorious bye and bye!

The Safety of the Christian

By REV. B. B. SUTCLIFFE
Extension Department, Moody Bible
Institute, Chicago

TEXT.—When I cry unto thee, then shall mine enemies turn back: this I know; for God is for me.—Ps. 58:9.

David, the sweet singer of Israel, has set down for us in the expression of his own emotions and experiences the heart of the believer's comfort and assurance. The Psalms contain the voice of the spiritual life of one who holds communion with God in the midst of a world opposed to him. In the above text there is much of comfort and assurance for the one beset by the foes of righteousness and truth.

The Need of Safety.
This psalm declares in the second verse "they be many that fight against me" and this is echoed by every Christian's heart. The world with its infinite variety of subtle temptations, adding huge stores of fuel to the pride of life, appealing in such crafty ways to the Christian's natural self; the flesh with its never-ending tug and pull drawing one in multitudinous ways to its desires and the devil with his unnumbered and devices leading into the avenues which appear so good and even religious, which yet are the paths toward death. Numerous indeed are the hosts of enemies. Malignant too these enemies are offering no quarter, showing no mercy but as this psalm says they "would daily swallow me up." They are as persistent as they are numerous and malignant. There is no respite from their attacks; they are "fighting daily," continually. Surely there is need of safety for the Christian in the midst of these foes.

The Time of Safety.
Our text says "when I cry unto thee, then shall mine enemies turn back." In his desire to teach us the Lord seems to permit us to go on fighting with our own strength, struggling with our weakness, striving to win in the unequal strife until we come one of old to the end of self and self's power and cry "O wretched man that I am." But while he permits this, it is only that he may lift us up in victory and makes us superior to all the attacks however bitter and hard pressed they may be. It has been well said that "the end of self is God's beginning" for "when I am weak then am I strong." Strong no longer in the power of my own resolutions and the force of my will, but strengthened with the might of the God who is omnipotent. When the Christian comes to the end of self, with his back to the wall and with a realization of his insufficiency, then he enters to the almighty and finds swift deliverance from all his foes.

The Certainty of Safety.
The psalmist has had sufficient experience to be assured that this is no mere pious and beautiful thought but out of the furnace of personal history comes the glad confident ringing cry "this I know." The Christian need not merely hope for safety with the uncertainty of human hope, but with the Divine assurance founded on the immutability of the eternal power of God. "If God be for us who can be against us?" is the Apostle's word in Romans 8:31. Beyond peradventure, without the shadow of doubt the Christian may know that when he cries unto the Lord, then will his enemies turn back. Not merely because he is a good man, not because he is a special favorite with high heaven, not because he has some special influence with God but because God has said, "I will never leave thee. I will never fall thee." Relying therefore on the "unfailing power and the unbreakable promise of the Almighty God he can say "I know."

The Cause of Safety.
The cause or reason of the believer's safety does not depend on the believer's own strength nor ability, but in the simple fact that God is for him. God was for him when Christ died for him upon the cross. The less is always included in the greater and "He that spared not his own son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him freely give us all things?" Rom. 8:32.

God was for the believer when Christ died, he was for the believer when salvation was bestowed, he was for him when he was brought into the family of God and being now one of the father's children in Christ, God will be for him in the time of danger to provide safety from all his enemies. Oh, that the children of God might learn to believe "when I cry unto thee then will mine enemies turn back: this I know; for God is for me."

Bond of Sympathy.
To be real, and yet trustful—sober, yet full of hope in our views and anticipations of life—is one secret means of conformity to the mind and will of God. And such a temper of soul has the further unspeakable blessing, that it connects our life with the life of our Lord, and forces a bond of sympathy and union with him.—Rev. T. T. Carter.

Pleasant Fields Of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Third Quarter, Lesson IX: Luke VI 30-38: XXI 1-4: September 1, 1918.
Golden Text: Remember the words of the Lord Jesus that he himself said: It is more blessed to give than to receive.

CHRISTIAN GIVING.

Mrs. Ballington Booth tells naively of how she and her brothers and sisters used to play with their father's ark, sending the patriarch and his family and all the animals, two and two into the ark, keeping out the cripples however, the legless beasts and headless and tailless birds. These they would after a period in which the waters were supposed to subside solemnly sacrifice as a whole-burnt offering to God. The Booths may have done that as children, but they have certainly put away the childish thing of offering their worst to God. It is an open question however, whether their illustrious example has been wisely followed as it should be and whether there is not need of a new Malachi to protest against the offering of sick lambs and mouldy bread. Greater to his credit is impossible if givers really apprehended that their gifts were to God himself. They see only the near object of their benevolence. It is the needy widow, the sick cripple or more generally the sick philanthropic institution or organization. "The remote object is the real object. It is God's own self. All true benevolence is done as unto the Lord himself, in his name, for his sake, because he asks it. He must be strangely indurated and brazen who could offer directly to God the unworthy and inadequate." In unworthy and inadequate. In the Roman Forum rises the fragment of a temple, so perfect in proportion one can never think of it as a ruin. Three columns support an entablature. This beautiful pagan relic may well represent a Christian virtue. Name those perfect pillars. The first is Stewardship. The world and all that it contains is the great entail of the Creator to his creatures. Everything is in trust. Man is God's steward. A final accounting is impending. The second column is Consecration. Stewardship is the Divine claim. Consecration is the human acknowledgment. The third column is love. The power impelling to Stewardship and Consecration is the passion of affection excited by the perfection of the Deity. Stewardship, Consecration, Love, these three, and where they are in any human soul, they lift the entablature of Benevolence toward heaven. Nor is this something fickle and emotional. On the contrary it is consistent and enduring. When the three pillars of the Forum fall the world falls. So when Stewardship, Consecration and Love fall, Benevolence falls. The supreme Steward, the almoner of the grace and mercy of his father, His consecration was sublime in perfection. He came to do the will of Him who sent him. It was his delight, his meat and drink. Finally Love pure and selfless was the mighty dynamic of all these and did. These irremovable pillars lift unflinchingly the Benevolence of Jesus to the view of heaven and earth. He was at once the greatest giver and the greatest gift. It was not his specific acts of giving, loaves and fishes, healing and helping, not even that divine compassion that clothed him as with a garment, that the very word of which virtue went forth, but he was in his very person the consummate gift of the love of God to a lost world.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

We are taught by opposites. The example of the wrong is a good foil for the right. When the question is asked "What is the opposite of ugliness?" the answer is beauty. The selfishness that deforms the heart against its appeal. The miser is miserable, although he may think he is not. There is no exaggeration and untruth in what is said of the late Hietty Green, but it is of court record and sworn evidence, that she lived on $10 a week and under six assumed names, to evade taxation and danger of robbery, that her only occupation and recreation was the investment and reinvestment of her funds and income and that she was obsessed with the fear of losing all. Could she be said to be the richest woman in America in spite of her hundred of millions? A stingy farmer once heard Wesley A. stony first proposition. "I was proud of you can." He said sotto voce "That's fine!" The second proposition was "Save all you can." "Better still!" was the delighted comment. "The third proposition was 'Give all you can.' There now!" said the farmer in bitter disappointment. "The gone and spent it all!" The suggestive of growing conscience in the privilege and duty of Christian stewardship. In eleven Protestant missions the gain in contributions to missions for the past ten years is 54 per cent and that for Foreign Missions is 87 per cent, the gain in current expenses has been 30 per cent. During the first decade of the 20th century the gifts in the United States of large denominations totaled $84 millions. The second decade will far surpass that. In 1914 alone the gifts to educational and charitable institutions amounted to $315 million. The word of Jesus about the superfluous giving to receiving or blessingness is a fragrant flower snatched from the oblivion of oral tradition by St. Paul in his incomparable farewell to the elders of Ephesus. To their surprise a certain city were told to bring their gifts to the cathedral on a certain day and that a sign would be given to the one whose gift was accepted. The rich no longer brought their costly presents and paraded down the nave and laid their gifts on the high altar. To their surprise and disappointment they all were swept to oblivion without token of any kind. Just at vesper a young woman stole in to the cathedral unnoticed and taking the side aisle, hugging the shadows, at last reached the chancel. She knelt, unobserved and reaching her empty hands across the altar rail laid them on the altar. Long she prayed, then rising still unobserved, she stole out as she had entered. Lo! where her hands had been laid sprang two lilies in full bloom and died the whole sacred edifice with their fragrance.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S DEVOTIONAL SERVICE.

September 1, 1918. James III 1-2. Motto: To many men well-fitting doors are not set to their tongues. Maxims Theognis. ALL FOR CHRIST (3) OUR TONGUES.

(Consecration Meeting)

St. James, the Just, favorite disciple, first bishop of Jerusalem, and martyr, has left us a legacy. It is his Epistle, addressed, it is true, to the Twelve Tribes scattered abroad, but just as well adapted to the Christian in Boston as in Jerusalem, and to the twentieth century as to the first. It is rhythmical at times, but rises to the solemn diction of one consciously appointed to censure, counsel and correct the Church of God. The third Chapter is a monograph, unmatched in literature, on the control of the tongue. Bits for horses, helms for ships, so the tongue smaller than curb or rudder, is even stronger and can do immense good or evil. It is a hell-kindled fire. But it can be mighty for good also. It can bless and send forth sweet water. If a man is unoffending in word it is an evidence of perfection.

The Telegram Reads:

HON. ROBERT M. LA POLLETTE,

"I RECOMMEND THAT YOU OPPOSE PLAN OF CONSCRIPTION SUGGESTED BY THE GENERAL STAFF AND REPORTED BY THE PRESS AS BEING URGED UPON CONGRESS AT THIS TIME. THE STATE OF WISCONSIN STANDS READY TO FURNISH ITS FULL QUOTA OF THE NATIONAL GUARD AS PROVIDED BY THE MILITARY-DEFENSE ACT OF JUNE 3, 1916, PROMPTLY, OR ANY ADDITIONAL FORCE REQUIRED TO MEET THE PRESENT REQUIREMENTS. WE CAN RECRUIT VOLUNTEERS MUCH FASTER THAN WE ARE RECEIVING EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES. THE SPIRIT OF OUR TROOPS WILL BE MUCH BETTER IF WE ADHERE TO THE VOLUNTEER SYSTEM, AND WE SHALL AVOID SORE SPOTS AT HOME IF WE DEFER CONSCRIPTION UNTIL IT CAN BE SHOWN TO BE A MILITARY NECESSITY. AS I SEE IT, PUBLIC SENTIMENT IS NOT READY FOR COMPULSORY MILITARY SERVICE, AND I TRUST THAT NOTHING WILL BE DONE BY CONGRESS THAT WILL MAKE THE WAR UNNECESSARILY UNPOPULAR WITH THE PEOPLE."

EMANUEL L. PHILIPP, GOVERNOR.

The above telegram is taken from the Journal of the Wisconsin State Senate, Page 11, of February 23, 1918, having been read into the record by Senator H. A. Huber, of Stoughton, Wisconsin, in a speech delivered by him in defense of the course of United States Senator LaFollette in connection with the war.

Utterances by Our "War Governor"

MARCH 23, 1917

In a Telegram to the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"We are not interested in the causes that lead to the war between the entente and central powers of Europe."

"We should not sacrifice American life upon European soil to settle disputes that do not concern us."

Mr. Voter: What do YOU say? You know that our manhood is fighting in bleeding France to save the world for liberty and democracy. Don't do anything that will take the heart out of the boys in the trenches.

Vote for the ALL-AMERICAN CANDIDATE FOR Governor

SENATOR

ROY P. WILCOX

A Proven, Experienced, Constructive Legislator and Business Man.

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR NOMINATION

Primary, September 3rd, 1918

Published by Thos. S. Nolan committee and to be paid for by them at the rate of 50c per inch.

I. Believing that the people should have, at this critical time, the service of their ablest men, many citizens prevailed upon to accept a call to duty and he has thus consented to become a candidate for the State Assembly.

II. Every thoughtful citizen realizes that there is but one vital issue and that is—to so organize Wisconsin politically and industrially that our greatest possible effort may be put forth in the winning of the war and preparing for the reconstruction that will follow.

III. We know that the supreme peace offensive is yet to be made, and the men elected to legislative office will have much to do with formulating Wisconsin's public opinion and giving it practical expression. We should elect men who are not only loyal but who have the ability and courage to make themselves felt in these matters.

IV. We strongly urge that the voters of this district do not lose this opportunity to secure for themselves representation that will be effective.

Vot for Thomas S. Nolan for Assemblyman at the Primary, September 3.

COMMITTEE.

Fast
Friends

By GLORIA BARSALOUX

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

He had been a lonely man. For three years Dexter Blinn had been one of a group of young men working for a house where service was reduced to slavery. It had stunted all of ambition and happiness within him. It had dwarfed the intellect and made of normal industry seekers discontented, suspicious, unfriendly beings.

Lo, and behold! a sudden change.
The plant of the money grasping corporation burned down one day and Dexter had sought another position.
He found it with a small mercantile house with five other employees. It was a transition as from a dingy pit to a sublime mountain height. For the first time in years Dexter found strongly human companionship.

From the start the jolly five had cultivated him. Each of the open-hearted young married men vied in moving this reticent stranger into a more harmonious atmosphere. Within six months Dexter was a new man. He entered into all the impulses of his fellow employees in a heartsome, open-clavative way. They invited him to club parties, to their homes. He never referred to his own. Once, when Ned Wilson, the liveliest one of the group, spoke to him about his family,
Dexter had briefly explained.

"Yes, there's three of them."

One day Ned said to his fellows:
"Dexter seems to make a mystery of that family of three of his. I met a friend of mine, though, who knows where he lives. Says his wife is a modest, pretty young woman. Her mother and a younger sister live with them. Noticed a photograph in his desk a few days ago—a sweet-faced girl, of course his wife."

Once, when the talkative five were boasting of the peace, glory and comfort of their respective homes, Dexter allowed his imagination to rove blindly.

"I say," he observed, "I can duplicate your brags. The meals they cook for me are the things to gloat over.
There's Alice—sweet as a violet, and her mother, the grandest housekeeper that ever lived. The little sister can play the piano like an expert."

It was at the end of his two years service that Ned Wilson discovered that a certain date a week ahead was Dexter's birthday.

"Boys," he planned, "let's celebrate the event. Dexter is a prime good pal.
We'll get up a surprise party—flowers, little friendly tokens, carry the refreshments and meet his wife. Then our families can get acquainted and we'll have our little circle complete."

The project was enthusiastically adopted. The jolly five, loaded down with various boxes and bundles, arrived at a neat little cottage at dusk.
Ned assumed the direction
